

The website redo

One ecosystem, three ways in

The structure you endorsed, unchanged.

The site stops presenting Paititi as a list of separate offerings and starts presenting it as one body of work that people can enter at different depths:

Inner Transformation

Retreats · 1-on-1 Mentorship
& Dreamwork · Primordial
Breathwork

Living Wisdom

Online Courses · Beyond
Ayahuasca · Journal · educational resources

Reciprocity

Yahua · Q'ero · Biocultural
Reserve · Natural Medicine ·
Donate

Personal transformation and planetary service are not two different activities — one matures into the other. Retreats are the in-breath; community programs the out-breath.

No split identities: no separate “Roman” site, no nonprofit vs. retreats divide.

The navigation becomes:

About | Programs ▾ | Initiatives ▾ | Beyond Ayahuasca | Journal | Support

Programs: Retreats · Online Courses · Mentorship & Dreamwork · Distance Healing · Workshops & Events

Initiatives: Our Living Vision · Yahua Ancestral School · Q'ero Initiative · Biocultural Reserve · Community Health · Impact

Already handled in the rebuild

Checked against the new code on 11 August — none of this needs doing.

- ✓ Distance Healing is folded into the main site – the old separate website is absorbed, every old link lands in the right place.
- ✓ The homepage opens with the Institute's credentials: 1,516 hectares, 20+ years, APCI recognition, clinics, the Supreme Court victory, the Yahua school.
- ✓ Every existing web address stays identical, so the move costs nothing in Google ranking.
- ✓ The garbled-text problems from the old site don't exist in the rebuild.

Rework items

- 1 Homepage – “Ways to Walk With Us.” The two-slide carousel becomes four doors: Immersive Retreats · Online Living Wisdom Courses · 1-on-1 Mentorship & Dreamwork · Support Indigenous & Conservation Initiatives. Card texts from your endorsed draft.
- 2 Online Courses becomes a real gateway. Today the page is an embedded booking widget that Google can't read. Each course gets its own written card with a description and an enrollment link.
- 3 A new Mentorship & Dreamwork page. The 1-on-1 work finally gets explained – dreamwork, depth psychology, contemplative inquiry, integration – with the required not-psychotherapy disclaimer and the Book a Connection Call button. Not titled “Life Coaching”.
- 4 Retreats becomes the gateway. Your framing copy at the top, the Himalayan Pilgrimage and upcoming programs, and the “Where Your Participation Goes” section – the economics are reciprocal, not “buy a retreat and we donate.”
- 5 Fact fixes. Two pages still say “4,000-acre reserve” – everything standardises on 1,516 hectares. The book page's funding line becomes the exact royalties commitment. A duplicated paragraph on the Initiatives page gets its real text back. Small typos on the Team page.
- 6 Launch mechanics. Search engines are currently told to ignore the new site (correct while it's in staging) – switched on at launch, together with the redirect map for decade-old links, the sitemap, and a proper 404 page.

Also from your notes, for after launch: the Google Ad Grant campaigns pointed at these new pages (up to $10k/month of free search ads), the “How Paititi Works” page, the “Why Paititi?” page, individual course pages, and the fifteen cornerstone educational articles.
